
Why Attend?

SMILA provides an excellent instructional course for teachers and parents seeking training in teaching reading and language arts.

This course is a research based, multi-sensory approach to effective language arts instruction for children and adults. Teachers are equipped to identify student's learning styles and effectively teach students who have reading difficulties.

This multisensory approach involves teaching using all learning pathways in the brain (visual, auditory, kinesthetic-tactile) simultaneously. Therefore, children gain a better foundation for acquiring language arts skills.
